

Donor Wall at the Centennial Library - 54 Church Street

Feathers for the Owl

The Library's logo includes an owl. The owl is a symbol of learning and wisdom. A donor wall was created in the foyer of the Centennial Library in 1977. The donor wall includes a wall mounted sculpture of an owl. Below the owl are name plaques. The name plaques resemble 'feathers.' Members of the community can buy a feather name plaque. The name of the donor is engraved on the 'feather' and the 'feather' is added to the owl donor wall. There are a number of ways to get a feather name plaque.

- A minimum contribution of $1000.00 by an individual or group will be recognized with a feather on the donor wall.
- The Library also tracks donations to the Endowment and Trust Fund and Honour with Books. When an individual or group has made contributions that total $1000.00 they are asked if they would like a feather name plaque added to the donor wall.

▶ For your convenience an Donor Wall Donation Form follows.
